(Wakefield, MA) September 27, 2007 - Odyssey Systems Consulting Group has been awarded a Professional Acquisition Support Services (PASS) Task Order contract to provide advisory and assistance support services to the U.S. Air Force Electronic Systems Center's (ESC) 950 Electronic Systems Group (ELSG). The 950th Electronic Systems Group develops, acquires, and integrates network-centric Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance (ISR) information and decision-support systems to fuse data at multiple security levels for Air Force, Joint and Coalition Warfighters. The 950th is responsible for the planning and execution of critical multi-billion dollar national priority programs. Work will be performed at Hanscom AFB, MA, Lackland AFB, TX, Langley AFB, VA, and other locations worldwide. The contract ceiling value is $ 65,834,379 over a five year period. Odyssey Team members performing on this Task Order include BAE Systems and P3I, Incorporated.

Odyssey CEO Michael Sweat commented: "We're excited to be selected to support the 950 ELSG's critical ISR mission. This award recognizes the strength of our team, most notably the exceptional support provided by BAE Systems to the 950 ELSG and its predecessor organizations over the last nineteen years. Our team is committed to continuing this tradition of exceptional support to the 950's transformational activities for U.S. and coalition warfighters."
